Marcus Designs: Terms of Service

Last updated: October 5, 2026

These terms cover any website project you hire Marcus Designs to do. Marcus Designs is a small business run by a high school student in Georgia, USA. By hiring me, you agree to these terms. If something here doesn't work for you, tell me before we start and we can talk about it.

1. The service

For $250, I'll design and build a one-page website: a single scrollable page with sections that fit your business, such as an intro, services, about, and contact.

The $250 price doesn't include:

Multi-page websites

Online stores, booking systems, logins, or other custom features

Writing all of your content from scratch (I can help polish what you give me)

Your domain name or hosting fees

Ongoing updates after the site is finished

If you want any of these, I'm happy to quote them separately.

2. Getting started

After you contact me, we'll talk about what you need. Then I'll confirm the scope, price, and timeline by email before any work begins. That email confirmation, together with these terms, is our agreement.

3. Payment

Half ($125) is due before I start.

The other half ($125) is due when the site is finished and before it goes live or I hand over the files.

I'll tell you which payment methods I accept when we confirm the project. The deposit holds your spot and covers the work I start on right away.

4. Revisions

The price includes up to two rounds of reasonable revisions, such as changing colors, fonts, layout tweaks, swapping images, or editing text. A complete redesign or adding new features isn't a revision. Those would be quoted as extra work.

5. Timeline

We'll agree on a timeline after your inquiry. Most of it depends on how fast I get your content (text, logo, photos) and feedback. If I'm waiting on you, the timeline moves back. If a project goes quiet for more than 30 days without a reply from you, I may treat it as paused or cancelled.

6. Your content

You're responsible for the text, images, logos, and other materials you give me. Please only send things you own or have permission to use. I'm not responsible if something you provide infringes someone else's rights.

7. Ownership

Once you've paid in full, the finished website is yours to use for your business. Until then, the design and code stay mine.

I may show the finished site in my portfolio unless you ask me not to.

8. Cancellation

You can cancel anytime. If you cancel before I start work, I'll refund your deposit. Once work has started, the deposit isn't refundable, since it covers the time I've already put in.

I can cancel too. If I can't finish the project for any reason, I'll refund any money you've paid for work I haven't delivered.

9. Limits of liability

I'll do careful, honest work, but websites depend on things I don't control, like hosting companies, browsers, third-party services, and internet outages. So:

The website is provided as is once you've approved it.

I'm not responsible for lost business, lost profits, or other indirect losses connected to your website.

My total responsibility for any claim related to a project is limited to the amount you paid me for that project.

10. After launch

After the site is live and paid for, any later changes, fixes caused by outside updates, or new content are separate work. I'm glad to quote them if you need them.

11. Governing law

These terms are governed by the laws of the State of Georgia, USA.

12. Changes to these terms

I may update these terms from time to time. The version in place when we confirm your project is the one that applies to it.
